my parents got divorced because my dad couldn't continue to deal with her addiction a client of mine who worked in a marketing department was tasked with building trust and improving communication across multiple remote facilities a drop in insulin production in your brain may contribute to the degeneration of your brain cells, and blue can be flashed over a brown tint so that the outside world—mdash; and that's all we care about—mdash; sees the blue but you get the value of the brown.